Why He Decided as He Did on the Vital Point in the Alaska Case.

PRITISH CLAIM MADE TOO LATE

Not Thought of When the Treaty Was Made with Russia.

Be Comforted - Even What They Got Is a "Barren Ideality."

London, Ocz. 21.-The award in the Alaskan boundar / case has been duly engrossed and //gned, the two Canadian commissioners refusing to sign it. They will, however, sign the maps which delimitates the line itself. Their feeling is intense on the subbetrayed in the house of their friends. Lord Alverstone, whose agreement the the rights of the Dominion.

LORD JUSTICE ALVERSTONE. with the United States commission- pressed that she would gain. ers brought about the decision that gives, without a cloud on the title, the whole littral of British Columbia to ers appointed by the United States the United States, says in his opinion on the vital point contained in question 5:

Claim to Ports an Afterthought.

"In my opinion it is correctly pointed outlon behalf of the United States that the word 'coast' is an ambiguous term. There is, as far as I know, no recognized rule of international law which would by implication give a recognized meaning to the word 'coast' as applied to such sinuosities and such waters different from the coast itself. After a most careful examination I am unable to find any passage in the negotiations connected which is to be held here Nov. 28 to with the treaty of 1825 which supports | Dec. 5, have closed, and show an inthe view that Great Britain was di- crease of 40 per cent. over those of rectly or indirectly putting forward a last year. In addition to the cattle, claim to the shores or ports at the which have always been the big featheads of the inlets.

Agrees with the United States.

"I have felt it my duty to express the reasons which led me to the conclusion to which I have come, that the answer of the fifth question should be in the affirmative, because I am constrained to take a view contrary to that presented on behalf of Great Britain." The considerations urged on the behalf of Canada, continued Lord Alverstone, "strong as they are in favor of a just and equitable modification of the treaty, do not in my opinion enable one to put a different construction upon the treaty." This ness men of the city estimate the loss briefly is Lord Alverstone's explara. at not more than $700,000, while the tion of why he decided against the contentions of his own countrymen and thereby settled the long standing dis-

WHAT HITS THE CANADIANS

After Getting Portland Canal the United States Commands the Same.

The Canadians are out of humor with the whole decision, but that on the Portland canal is what seems to hit the hardest. Here they get the canal, but United States is given two islands, situated on the canal, that nd the British town of Port n. In an official statement they say of the Portland canal:

"There are two channels parallel with each other, with four islands be tween them. The Canadian contention was that the northern channel should be adopted. The United States contended for the southern channel On the result of the decision depend ed the possession of the four islands, Kannaghant, Sitkian, Wales and Pearse. When the tribunal met after the argument and considered question the view of the three Brit ish commissioners was that the Canadian contention was absolutely un-answerable. A memorandum was prepared and read to the co ers embodying our views and showi it to be beyond dispute that the Cacase should prevail and that the boun lary should run to the northward o hem to Cameda. of the tribunel other than the four. They command the outrines e Portland canal and the or se to Port Simpson. Their of reasoning whereby the line thus de-ALVERSTONE'S VIEWS cided upon by the tribunal can be justified. It was never suggested by counsel in the course of argument that such a line was possible. Either the four islands belong to Canada or belong to the United States. In the award Lord Alverstone agrees with the United States commissioners that the islands should be divided, giving the two which possess strategic value to the United States.

COMMENTS ON THE DECISION.

London Papers Foot Up Britain's Gain; Canadians Are Not Amiable.

London, Oct. 21 .- "From a British viewpoint the best that can be said Canadian Commissioners Refuse To of the settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute is that it is over." In foregoing words the Graphic strikes the keynote of London press comment on the decision of the Alaskan boundary tribunal. This decision is generally denominated "The surrender of I ritish rights on the altar of American friendship." While there is no suggestion of personal criticism of either Lord Chief Justice Alverstone or the United States commissioners the tendency is to regard the Canadian commissioners as the heroes of the hour ject. They feel that they have been for their refusal to sign the document surrendering what they considered to nouncement of the failure of the Mary-
